Radisson Hotel Group today revealed the owners of Radisson Admiral Hotel Toronto-Harbourfront have announced their intent to convert the hotel into a Radisson Blu, making this the company's first upper upscale hotel introduction in Canada. The owners are planning to update the hotel's public spaces, guest rooms, food and beverage offerings and its meeting space to bring its unique Radisson Blu brand to life. The hotel's new look will feature a stylish and contemporary design, while maintaining its personalized service catering to the needs of each guest. The hotel is anticipated to open as a Radisson Blu in June 2019.

"We are thrilled to potentially bring Radisson Blu to Canada, especially in the great city of Toronto," said Ken Greene, president, Americas, Radisson Hotel Group. "The owners and staff of this hotel have gone above and beyond to provide an incredible experience for guests while under the Radisson flag. We are confident this hotel will make a great addition to the Radisson Blu family and a perfect representation of the brand as we continue to grow our portfolio of hotels throughout the Americas as part of our five-year plan."

The 157 guest rooms and suites will boast a new look and feel. Guests can continue to enjoy popular amenities at the hotel such as the restaurant and lounge, café, fitness center and underground parking.
